Communication Skills:-

Communication skills have a significant impact on a child's personality development. Now a day's kids spend astounding amounts of time on their electronic devices and with this shift, they are losing their skills in how to communicate their needs—with their own voices. Improving communication skills in children of all ages today could benefit generations to come, salvaging the power of verbal communication in a world buzzing with technological alternatives.

To instil “social skills”:

- Greet with a smile when someone comes to the house.
- Always point out the worker/maid of the house to wear mask while working.
- Keep your environment and surrounding neat and clean.
- Don't watch too much of television .
- Speak politely with everyone in the house.
- Go for a round in your nearby park for nature walk with your grandparents.

Fun Rules

“Kindergarten children are confident in spirit, infinite in resources, and eager to learn. Everything is still possible.”

Dear Parent,

We hope that the children are enjoying in the school. As there will be no classes for summer break so we want our little ones to utilize their time with constructive and creative activities.
